SPRING

HENDRIX COLLEGE BULLETIN

APRIL 1945

DORMITORIES have their place, too, especially the parlors and lobbies. Beside the mirror are Eloise Payne and Stanley Cook. Seen in mirror are Montie Uitter, Peggy Beard and Don Phillips.

Cameraman Visits Plumerville Schools

Stanley Cook, assisted by Charles Stuck, made this series at the Plumerville schools where Hendrix student teachers go for teaching experience.

Beginning at the top we see a science class on a field trip, Grady Jo Cochran, teaching a music class, Mary Elizabeth Conger elaborating inflation and deflation for a social science class, Jeanne Buckley pointing out the difference between active and passive verbs, and Betty Ruth Coleman straightening up some last details during dress rehearsal for a play performed later in the day.

CEDAR TREES make an interesting study for Don Phillips. Refreshments were bountiful at a manless dance at Galloway. Earnest Christmas carolers were unconscious of the flash gun. Below. Barry Bailey and Harriet Blandford look at part of a rare cotton textiles exhibit by the art department.

Jo Marie Lehigh is telling a good one. if we can judge by the faces of Montie Utter (far bed). Betty Jane Lites (on floor). and Nell Cromer (at desk). Montie and Jo, both members of the photography class, are also in dressing table picture on opposite page.

The photography class also planned shots of boys' dormitory life but didn't get to them in time for this issue.

Below on the concrete tennis courts are Hugh Longino (near side of net), Norman Nichols, and Nancy Penix.

Below is a shot in the biology laboratory by part of the class, led by Stanley Cook. Working on the skeleton are Rebecca Downs and Bob Brown.

MISCELLANY

Enrollment in the summer term will exceed that of last year according to Dr. H. I. Lane, director of the session which begins June 5. ♦Enrollment prospects for fall will excel according to the enrollment office. Women's dormitories are already almost filled. ♦Garrett L. Starmer, new director of speech, will assume his duties in September. Originally appointed last January, circumstances prevented his coming at that time. Ralph E. Mead has been filling the position during the present semester. ♦Helen Bailey of Little Rock will be president of the student association for 1945-46. Vice-president will be Mary Jo Henry of Searcy. Class officers are as follows: Virginia Ferguson of Danville, senior president, and Rosamond Lemley of Atkins, senior senator; John Edward Chiles of Joiner, junior president, and Sara Jane Hunt of Fort Smith, junior senator; James Hurley

Trustees Praise President Reynolds

A resolution praising President J. H. Reynolds for his long and productive career at Hendrix College was read to the board of trustees at the April 10 meeting by Aubrey G. Walton of Little Rock, a member of the resolutions committee.

The resolution follows:

"All honor to our remarkable leader, Dr. John Hugh Reynolds. As student, professor and president he has a long list of remarkable achievements. In his 30 years administration he has more firmly established Hendrix as an educational institution for Christian growth and development of our youth. Through a carefully selected faculty, rich in cultural and personal achievement, his administration has broadened the basis, strengthened the services and extended the influence of the college. In the security of membership in the North Central Association and the Association of American Universities, achieved during this administration, Hendrix has qualified for support from the church, from business and professional leaders, and from various national philanthropic boards and agencies. With a sound financial policy and a vision of the future, Hendrix marches on.

"As this remarkable leader retires after a most successful and devoted service to our college, we take this opportunity to express our sincere gratitude to him and in the language of the president of this board of trustees remind him we love him because "With courage, vision, steadfastness and boundless energy he has put his whole self into the college."

of Warren, sophomore president, and Elizabeth Anne Scobee of Little Rock, sophomore senator. ♦Leaders of the February Special campaign for Hendrix College and Ministerial Education predict that the goal of $16,000 will be over-subscribed as in past years. The campaign is being conducted this year from May 20 to June 3, having been postponed from February in order not to conflict with the Crusade for Christ. ♦Hendrix students and faculty observed V-E day with a special song service followed by entertainment in the afternoon and a picnic supper. ♦Of the twelve ministerial students now in Hendrix seven are serving as supply pastors at a total of eighteen churches in addition to following their regular school work. ♦Books being added to the Library in memory of H. T. Harrison and J. J.

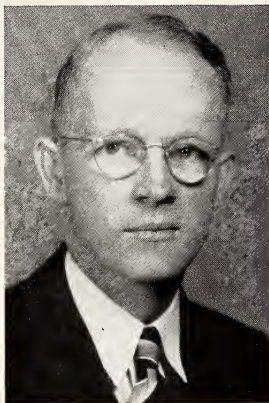

Harrison have now passed the 50 mark. Books are bought with interest from a fund begun by the Century Bible Class of the First Methodist Church in Little Rock. The fund has now passed $3,000. ♦A special school for supply pastors which was held at Hendrix in March will be continued in future years. Thirty-three pastors attended the school this year. ♦Mrs. Leon Karel, the former Miss Nan McHenry, succeeded Mrs. Dale Ford in March as a piano instructor in the preparatory department of music. Mrs. Karel's husband is in the airborne division of the army and is now in France. ♦More than 50 selected volumes from Dr. C. J. Greene's personal library were recently given to the Library by Mrs. Greene. Dr. Greene before his death had already given a number of his valuable books to the Library.

President Ellis Comes July 1st

Dr. Ellis will be the fourth Hendrix president since the school has been located at Conway. Others were Dr. A. C. Millar (1887-1902, 1910-1913), Dr. Stonewall Anderson (1902-1910), and Dr. J. H. Reynolds (1913-1945). Rev. I. L. Burrow, founder at Altus of Central Collegiate Institute, the institution which became Hendrix, continued as president from the purchase of the school by the Methodist Church in 1884 until 1887.

Dr. Reynolds announced his approaching retirement as president of Hendrix last December and a committee of the board of trustees at that time was named to select a successor. Formal election of Dr. Ellis occurred at the spring meeting of the board at Hendrix on April 10.

The selection of Dr. Ellis is expected to be highly received by alumni, ex-students and the present student body of Hendrix, as well as throughout the Methodist Church and business circles of the state.

Dr. Ellis is a native of Arkansas. He was born at Ben Lomand, Little River County, in 1901, but grew up in Lockesburg. His family removed to Arkadelphia after he entered college.

In 1917 Dr. Ellis entered former Henderson-Brown College at Arkadelphia and showed an interest in social science, philosophy and natural science. He received the bachelor's degree from Henderson-Brown in 1921, taught physical science in the college's academy two years, then went to Yale University, where he received the master of arts degree in 1925. After another period as teacher of philosophy and Bible at the Arkadelphia college, he returned to Yale for further graduate study and obtained his doctor's degree in 1933. He again returned to the Henderson faculty.

Future Challenges Christian College

"It is indeed a great honor to be invited to succeed so distinguished an educator as President J. H. Reynolds, 'spiritual adventurer, courageous leader, sincere and good man.' Under his able administration Hendrix College has made a proud record of great achievement.

"With deep appreciation of expressions of confidence by many friends, I shall count it a high privilege to work with the men and women of the Hendrix faculty and with other Hendrix friends in maintaining high educational standards in a college definitely related to the Church and dedicated to an enlarged ministry in Christian education.

"At perhaps no time in our history has the church-related liberal arts college faced greater responsibility or greater opportunity. The tensions and strains, the frustrations and resentments, the restlessness and uncertainty, which characterize many minds today will continue to make life adjustment difficult in postwar years. The contemporary scene multiplies and magnifies the needs of students for religious guidance and for the development of a Christian philosophy of life.

Hendrix, belonging in that group of schools that are 'keepers of the light,' must meet the tests of difficult days and continue to prove that it is well prepared for Christian character building.

"Alert to demands for such modifications in program as are required to meet changing needs, Hendrix should have the curriculum and the extra-curriculum which the collective judgment of her leaders may decide are most effective in the college experience of young men and young women who represent the future leadership of church and state. Many of these students will need the help of able counselors in finding areas of usefulness in the work of the world into which they can adequately fit themselves and from which they can derive lasting satisfaction.

"It is my greatest hope that Arkansas Methodists might through the years think of the school at Conway as the College of their Church. Through our cooperative efforts we must make and keep Hendrix 'Christian without apology and Methodist with pride.'"

In the fall of 1935 Dr. Ellis joined the Hendrix faculty as professor of philosophy and director of the library. He remained at Hendrix until elected president of Henderson, succeeding the late Lt. Col. Joe A. Day in 1941.

The new Hendrix president has been active in both public and church affairs in recent years. For 10 years he taught a men's Bible class in Arkadelphia and also taught in the First Methodist church school at Conway while teaching at Hendrix. He often is sought as a speaker for public occasions throughout the state. He is now serving as lay leader of the Little Rock conference of the Methodist Church.

Mrs. Ellis is the former Miss Alice Wepfer of Nashville, Ark., who also attended Henderson-Brown. She and Dr. Ellis were married in 1925. They have a daughter, Margaret Jean, 15.
